Quilts highlight Bench Fair '03

A total of 47 quilts turned one end of the A. G. Ross Arena into a cozy nook this past weekend, and drew considerable attention from the sizeable crowd which visited the Elk Point Agricultural Society Bench Fair on Sunday afternoon.

Patterns ranged from the old-fashioned crazy quilts to intricate patterns made up of literally thousands of tiny pieces, to the fringed squares of the currently popular 'rag time' quilts, seen here in both flannel and denim.

One outstanding quilt originated in Saudi Arabia, where creator Kathy Shepherd Soetart put together a great collage of family history and special interests as a birthday gift for her father Ken, son of Winnie and Jim Shepherd. Other very special quilts included two made of denim, one appliquéd with a photo history of bride and groom Pennie and Casper Zarowny by the groom's mother Patsy, one autographed by classmates and sewn by Marg Saranchuk as a graduation gift for granddaughter Laci Jacobson. Two special quilts were displayed even before reaching their recipients: a wedding gift quilt created by Gabrielle Bayduza for her son Tom and new daughter-in-law Crystal, and a baby quilt created by Donna Babcock for the newborn great-granddaughter of a special friend (see Page 4).

Many quilts were treasures of the past, including one sewn by gaslight back in 1944 by Violet McFadyen from suit fabric samples. A well-worn baby quilt was submitted by Blandine Adkins, two much-loved quilts were received by Eugene and Juanita Buck as wedding gifts back in 1987 (one created by grandmother Florence McDonnell at the age of 87), and a friendship quilt was created by Hazel Hoard in the 1980s with blocks from friends and family.

Many other beautiful examples of quilting art also had their own stories to tell, and were carefully examined by the quilting fans in the audience.

Doctor interested in Elk Point

The Town of Elk Point's Physician Recruitment Committee told residents last week that they are "happy to report that we have been in constant dialogue with a doctor from South Africa."

"This doctor has expressed a keen interest in our town. He will be coming for a site visit at the end of August. He also indicated that Elk Point is the only town he will be visiting.

"At this time, we are optimistic that we can enter into negotiations with him for a contract agreement with Aspen Health Authority and our town."

This hopeful message was contained in a document sent to all homes in and around Elk Point, which also included a thorough explanation of the lengthy process of recruiting medical staff. Many steps, including interviews, assessments and approvals, are required between the time the need to recruit a physician is identified, and the actual placement of a physician in a community. Local and Canadian sources of an appropriate physician must be exhausted before the search can be expanded overseas.

The best efforts of Elk Point and district residents were overshadowed by two women from Cold Lake, who placed first and third in the Grand Aggregate count at this weekend's Elk Point Agricultural Society Bench Fair.

Lillian Balazs had only one section win, in House Plants, but her multiple entries in other sections totaled up to put her name on the Grand Aggregate plaque sponsored by CJ Petroleum and to earn her the award sponsored by ATCO Electric. Ina Gillespie, also of Cold Lake, won the Canning section and placed third in the aggregate for the Servus Credit Union award, presented by new Fair Board chair Angelina Christenson.

Second place in the Grand Aggregate went to local preteen Kelsey Lindquist, who won the Junior Fair, Junior Sewing and Junior Flowers sections on her way to the award sponsored by E-Can Oilfield Services.

Entries were down in many sections, including Baking, where convenor Sheila Nelson presented the Elk Point Co-op award to Fay May. Brett Lindquist won the Junior title. First-time convenor Donna Bassett presented the Sewing award from TD Canada Trust to Verona Lea Flanders, and the Junior prize to Kelsey Lindquist.

Entries were down in Photography, but convenor Lesia Sherwin was encouraged by the number of new exhibitors this year. Denise Bjorkman won the Home Town Grocers award, with the Junior award going to Lisa Kozicky.

Canning entries were few this year, with Angelina Christenson presenting the Empress Restaurant award to Mrs. Gillespie.

Entries in House Plants were few in number but excellent in quality, with Mrs. Balazs receiving the Meadowview Greenhouses award from first-time convenor Myrna Fox.

Review editor Vicki Brooker showed a surprising green thumb to win the Flowers section, also convened by Mrs. Fox, with an award from B & R Eckels. Kelsey Lindquist accepted the Junior award.

Angelina Christenson won the Apple Drugs award for Knitting, Crocheting and Weaving, convened by Ellen Seward. The Junior award in the division went to Sara Kozicky.

Entries were down in Arts, Crafts and Hobbies, but convenor Denise Bjorkman said the judge was very impressed with the quality of the work, especially the quilting. The Elk Point Insurance award went to Verona Lea Flanders, with the junior award going to Sara Kozicky.

Entries were down but quality was good in the Junior Fair, with convenor Cheri Lindquist presenting the Danin Office Supplies award to her daughter Kelsey.

Dwarf, quad stolen West Nile confirmed in Aspen

■ Sometime between 5:00 p.m. August 2 and 7:30 a.m. August 3, a theft of a lawn ornament occurred in a backyard of a residence in Elk Point. The stolen item is a concrete dwarf sitting on a log.

■ On August 4, 2003 Elk Point RCMP received a complaint that a quad being used by a seismic company in the Frog Lake Reserve was stolen. The quad is a blue Yamaha YFM4MA 2003.

Anyone with information regarding either incident is asked to call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or the Elk Point RCMP Detachment at (780) 724-3964.

Crime Stoppers will pay up to $2000 for information leading to the arrest of the person(s) responsible for this or any other crime. You do not have to reveal your identity and if your tip leads to an arrest you qualify for an award.

Sheila Nelson had only one entry in Grains and Hay this year, and presented the award from Wozniak Bulk Fuels award to her son Lindon.

Vicki Brooker reported entries were also down in Creative Writing, but was encouraged by entries from first time competitors. Former Junior winner Jennifer Flanders won the Adult section, with Natalie Maas and Brett Lindquist taking the two Junior age divisions, all three prizes sponsored by the Elk Point Review.

Senior Fair winner was Irene Melin. Denise Bjorkman presented the award donated by Irene Magnusson on behalf of convenor Jean Smereka.

Two sections enjoyed a small increase in entries this year. Don Brooker won the Fresh Fruit section, taking home an award from Woody's Trophy and Gifts, while Joanne Bepalko collected the most wins in Vegetables, sponsored by Cal's Home Hardware. Brett Lindquist winning the Junior award. Katherine Shymkiw convenes both sections.

The Aspen Regional Health Authority is reminding people to take precautions to avoid mosquito bites after two birds found in the region have been confirmed as carriers of West Nile Virus.

Test results confirmed the virus' presence in a magpie found in the Thorhild area and a crow from Warspite.

"While the risk of human infection remains very low, these positive results in birds in Aspen means everyone should be aware of and take steps to protect themselves and their families from mosquito bites," said Dr. Gerhard Benadé, Aspen's acting Medical Officer of Health in a media release.

The virus is not spread by person-to-person contact, and about 80 per cent of people who become infected will not experience any symptoms while about 20 per cent will show flu-like symptoms.

"In areas where mosquitoes are infected, less than one per cent have the virus and less than one per cent of people bitten by infected mosquitoes develop a serious illness.

One local organization is participating in a provincial program to test mosquitoes for the virus.

"We've been collecting mosquitoes since early June," said manager of the Lakeland

Agricultural Research Association (LARA) Stephen Dusek.

He explained LARA has two mosquito traps, one north of LaCorey and one at the MD of Bonnyville water treatment pond, which are set out at 6 p.m. each Tuesday evening. The mosquitoes are then collected at 6 a.m. the following morning.

"We're averaging 350-plus mosquitoes per sampling event."

The insects are put on a cold plate, keyed to species and then separated into vials, at 50 per vial, then sent on dry ice via courier to a provincial lab for

Although many bird species can be infected with the West Nile virus, mortality is rare except in members of the crow (Corvidae) family, which includes crows, ravens, magpies and blue jays.

Anyone who finds a dead crow or member of the crow family, drop it off at any fish and Wildlife office. When dealing with any "found dead" wildlife, always wear gloves, use a bag inverted over your hand, or use a stick to move the dead animal into a container. Do not handle dead wildlife directly with your hands.

"There's been nothing yet from our two traps," Dusek said. "So far we've been testing negative."

LARA became involved in the provincial initiative at the request of Alberta Health and about four hours per week are spent on the program.

Dusek said participating in the program does fall within LARA's mandate.

"We are an applied agricultural research farm. We're here for the betterment of the greater public good, whatever helps the producers, being on top of it and taking a proactive approach."

Dusek said LARA staff aren't particularly concerned about the increased exposure to mosquitoes and potentially to West Nile virus.

"Common sense prevails. The chances of contracting it are slim."

According to Benadé, the elderly and people with weakened immune systems are at higher risk for developing severe symptoms, which can include high fever, headache and neck stiffness, disorientation, coma and tremors, and occasional convulsions.

"In very rare cases, a West Nile virus infection can be fatal."

He suggests using insect repellent, protective clothing and netting, and eliminating standing pools of water as the most effective means of reducing exposure to mosquitoes.

Ring found in park

On or about May 28, in the area of Markstad Park in Elk Point, a man's ring was found. If you have lost such a ring, please contact the Elk Point RCMP at 724-3964. If after business hours, please leave your name and phone number. Be prepared to provide a detailed description of this ring.

Long-ago resident visits

The daughter of one of Elk Point's pioneer families visited the district last week. Nora (Wolfe) Barber and her husband Bob, of Belleville, Ontario, visited Fort George and Buckingham House, the Hopkins Ferry site and drove past some of the homesteads sites she remembered as a girl. Mrs. Barber is the daughter of Thomas Wolfe, who came to the area from Ireland in 1911, and who established a homestead approximately 5 miles southeast of town.

community NEWS*Former minor ball stars keep on hitting big

Hey, where do all the old Sox go when they're done playing minor ball? Sorry to say it, but many have no place to go except to slow-pitch, washed up to the beer league of baseball.

Today's story is about two handsome young guys, from the Sox "Hall of Fame", who went on to play baseball in the Powerline Senior Men's League.

They both started in T-ball, played every summer, and although they never had the glory of winning a provincial gold medal like this year's Sox team, they were two of the main reasons that inspired the formation of the Midget Sox, back in the spring of 1996.

These two guys, plus about eight other committed ball players, loved playing ball, and when other kids went on to summer hockey, soccer, or just lying around the house, these guys wished to continue playing, therefore the Sox team was formed and the big major league Bassett Field was built, and the rest, of course, is history. The

Review Sports

Sox midget team has been here in Elk Point ever since. This is where the provincials champions got their start.

From the class of 1980, Tyler "Motor Mouth" Warawa, the past Sox team captain, a great competitor, superb infielder, quick as a bobcat on short-stop, one of the top Sox pitchers of all time, and a master of chatter that drove the other teams nuts. Tyler, a solid hitter with a batting average always around 500, he batted in the cleanup spot for the Sox.

And from the class of 1981, Jordan "Buhner" Bassett, a natural born power slugger, hitting in the number three spot in the batting order, the first player of a very select few ever to hit a home run out of Bassett Field, played third base, pitched and caught, but his real home is in the outfield. For years from the time Jordan was about 7 or 8 years old, every night right after supper he and his buddies Tim and Denny would say "Come hit us pop flies" "So I would hit pop flies to them in the alley by the curling rink for hours. They would catch the ball, dive and roll just like they were in the majors!"

Because minor ball had been a great experience for these kids they wanted to continue playing competitively, and fortunately they both work around the Camrose area in the summer months and were able to do so. The first year they hooked up with the Camrose Cougars. Then in the next season they were both approached to play in Armenia, a small village just outside of Camrose, playing for the Axemen the last two years, helping them win the Powerline League title in both of those years. The league consists of teams from Camrose, Chipman, Bardo, Lamont, Ryley, and Tofield. The boys do also compete in some other senior ball tournaments around the province during the season.

"Buhner" is still known as the slugger playing in the outfield normally left or right field. Tyler, an infielder, plays most times on second base, where you can still hear him chatter it up. This fall "the mouth" is going to tie the knot, he's getting married in October. As for "Buhner" he seems to be happy right now living the life of a single man, although he has been making some long trips to Moose Jaw.

It's great to see some guys go on to more than just beer league, although I do believe they have been known to sip a few cool ones after the games, and possibly no doubt did drink some suds from the Cup just last week!

And now for the K. A. Campbell's quote of the week "I never shave on days I'm going to pitch. I try to look extra mean on those days. It helps me get batters out." Last week's answer to:

Hitting is timing. Pitching is upsetting timing" - Warren Spahn. Got any scoops? Now you can Email them to me at sportshound007@hotmail.com

POWERLINE LEAGUE CUP WINNERS - Jordan "Buhner" Bassett and Tyler "Motor Mouth" Warawa keep up the good work they learned in the local minor ball as they compete in men's baseball.

Horse owners urged to vaccinate their animals despite concerns

By Josh Aldrich
St. Paul Journal

When a horse near Dewberry tested positive for West Nile virus (WNV) it sent a clear message that, despite our best efforts, it was here and there is not a whole lot we could do about it.

One of A horse owner's only options is to vaccinate their horses, a step many local owners are not willing to take.

"Any vaccination program is based on balancing cost, risk of using the vaccine versus risk of not using the vaccine," said Dr. Duane Landle with Alberta Veterinarian Medical Association. "Everybody works out their own program."

There are several reasons being tossed around as to why horse owners will not vaccinate their horses. One of them is cost.

At $27 before taxes per shot from the local vet clinic it can be a pretty steep price to face with a larger herd, especially when two are needed.

Another reason is a whole sense of invincibility, that the chances of one of their horses becoming infected is next to none so why waste the time and money on the vaccination.

"It's human nature that until you're affected by it, that's what gets you going," said local veterinarian Dr. Craig Hellquist. "I suspect that if we had a case in St. Paul tomorrow, we probably would have people rushing into vaccinate their horses."

Finally, the most disturbing reason are the claims that the vaccination causes deformations to unborn foals to occur and for these foals to slip at a greater rate.

"I didn't think it was safe enough to do my mares," said local horse owner Lori Côté who did not vaccinate any of her 32 horse. "It's pretty scary because (WNV) is getting a lot closer. From everything I read though, it was more scary to give the vaccine than not to give the vaccine."

There are whole web sites devoted to these claims, in particular www.lostfoals.com. In just over two months, the Lost Foals website has been flooded with over 100 posts chronicling these claims pre and post vaccination.

The site is at the centre of a hurricane of controversy of "false news reports" being printed in papers about the claims as fact instead of scientifically unproven claims, which is what the company that produces the vacci-

Quilters' art spans many generations of talent

QUILTERS' ART OLD AND NEW was displayed in a marvelous collection of almost 50 quilts spanning several generations. At left, Norma Berg proudly displays a well-used 'bow tie' patterned bed covering created by her mother in 1948, which used sugar sacking as one of its primary components. A brand new quilt for a brand new baby (above) has ties to an earlier generation: Donna Babcock created the wildlife theme coverlet for Avery Dawne Loge, month-old daughter of Mark and Jayme (Pelech) Loge of Fort McMurray, in memory of Avery's great-grandmother Barbara Milholland, an avid quilter who guided and encouraged Mrs. Babcock when she was learning this painstaking needle art.

Welcome to participants in the 20th Annual
Elk Point Oilmen's
Golf Tournament - a great Elk Point tradition!

Thanks for sharing your most precious memories

Many precious memories were shared with Elk Point Fair visitors this weekend, as they wandered slowly along the rows of quilts spanning many decades of dedicated craftsmanship.

Older quilts, dating back as far as the 1920s, were created from whatever material was available, from sugar sacks and leftover scraps from making the family's clothes, to samples of more expensive fabrics. As years went by, polyester scraps and carefully selected prints became more prevalent, and these days, flannelette is making an appearance in the 'rag time' quilts.

Patterns ranged from intricate postage stamp size to the larger, random-shaped patches of the crazy quilts, with many of the all-time favorite patterns sharing space with new innovations.

Quilts old and new were made for special occasions - weddings, new arrivals, graduation, landmark birthdays and anniversaries. They were made for special people - children and grandchildren, parents and special friends. Some were made by several people, with blocks created by family and friends and then sewn together to create a unique keepsake.

These quilts gave us a glimpse into the lives of others, past and present and in every one, from those made for family members to those for sale to help raise funds for the Red Cross, one could not help but sense the love and dedication that went into every tiny stitch.

Recipes for berry time

With our gardens in the harvest season and with all the fresh fruit being brought in, I thought you might like to try some new recipes. I adapted these recipes from the June/July 2003 issue of the Taste of Home magazine. You should be able to substitute saskatoons or raspberries for blueberries if you wish. Enjoy, everyone!

Blueberry Banana Bread

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 tsp. vanilla
2 medium ripe bananas, mashed
1 cup fresh blueberries
Combine flour, baking soda and salt. In large bowl, cream shortening and sugar, add eggs and vanilla, mix well. Beat in bananas. Gradually add dry ingredients, beating just until combined. Fold in blueberries.

Pour into three greased 5 3/4 x 3 x 2 inch loaf pans. Bake at 350° for 20 - 35 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the centre comes out clean. Cool in pans for 10 minutes on a wire rack before removing from pans. Makes three mini loaves.

Blueberry Upside-down Cake

6 tablespoons softened butter, divided
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
2 cups fresh blueberries
3/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/4 cups cake flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 cup milk
In small saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons butter, stir in brown sugar, spread in ungreased 8-inch baking dish. Arrange blueberries in a single layer over brown sugar mixture. In a large mixing bowl, cream 4 tablespoons butter, beat in sugar, add egg and vanilla, mix well. combine flour and baking powder, add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Carefully pour over blueberries. Bake at 350° for 40-45 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the centre of the cake comes out clean. Immediately invert onto a serving platter. Cool. Serve with whipped topping or whipped cream if desired. Serves 6 to 8.

oilmen's GOLF

A look back at 19 years of Elk Point Oilmen's Golf tournaments

Over the past 19 years, oilmen from far and wide have gathered in Elk Point each summer for golf and good times. As the tourney grew from nine flights in 1984 to as many as 17 flights, golfers braved broiling sun and pouring rain in their annual quest for trophies. The Elk Point Review salutes the Oilmen as they wrap up their second decade.

A celebration of imagination

TALENTS OF ALL KINDS were recognized at the Fair, from exquisite quilts and painstaking crochet work to the pride of area gardens. Imagination was celebrated in crafts ranging from oil and acrylic paintings to Christmas ornaments to the quirky polyester appliqué 'trash' at left. Many sections offered special categories and awards for young entrants, such as the "best dressed vegetables" above.

You can help build a zoo at the Library

By Sandy Bullock and April Gusnowski

Elk Point Public Library

Reading and writing has been an important attribute throughout time. In medieval times the ability to read was for royalty and nobility. In the early 1900s, learning to read and write was offered to a variety of people, but it was not necessary for some lines of work. Now, in the 21st century, reading is expected of most everyone, but along with being able to read we are expected to be able to use computers and the Internet; these are considered basic functions in the workplace.

The library feels that these traits are important to develop and as such we want to promote this for children. "Help Build A Zoo at the Library" is a current display designed to encourage kids to learn to read, use the Internet for research, and find and utilize information. The display includes an activity book for the kids, books on animals for research or simply interest sake and a parent's guide that gives details about the program and the importance of reading and using computers.

The activity books were developed on the idea that Jon, the Zookeeper, is expecting the arrival of some new creatures at his zoo. To ensure he can care for them properly he would like to learn more about their species. Each creature has five questions given; each child chooses one question to answer per creature. The purpose is that by answering the questions correctly you prepare Jon for the arrival of his new creatures while learning lots of neat facts.

Teaching these basic functions of communication in children will help them in the future to be successful. The mission of "Help Build a Library at the Zoo" is to show kids that reading and doing research on the computer does not have to be tedious, and maybe they will learn to enjoy it!

Hot New Items

Request Book

ATTENTION all readers!!! The library has a new system to help you read your favorite authors newest books. Due to the demand for the latest books, we have developed a system that will allow you to request a book even before it is published. All you have to do is ask the front desk for the "Hot New Items Request Book" and flip through the pages searching for your author of interest. Once you find the author's name his/her newest books will be listed below. All you have to do is fill out the form provided! When the book comes in we will call you and you may sign it out. This book will also allow the library to see where our patrons reading interests are and thus we can order more of the most popular writers. For this reason we have a suggestion page at the back of the book and we welcome all feedback. Just ask a staff member for help, as we are all happy to assist!

Attention Summer Reading Program Parents

The summer reading program is planning a fieldtrip to Fort George Buckingham House Interpretive Centre (6-11 age session) on August 14, 2003. Normal admission prices apply and are to be paid before departure. However, we are dependent on parent volunteers for transportation. As such, if we do not get a sufficient number of volunteers our field trip will consequently be cancelled. To put your name down as a volunteer driver call the public library at 724-3737. Hope to see you there!

West Nile vaccine

nation, Fort Dodge, is calling them.

"We fully investigate any reports," said Dr. John Tuttle a technical consultant with Fort Dodge. "We recruit experts who have used thousands of injections to look for any abnormalities. There isn't any scientific evidence to prove or to state that the West Nile Vaccine is the cause of any of these congenital abnormalities. We're not putting our blinders on. We are thoroughly investigating all calls."

The controversy is centered mostly around pregnant mares. For one the vaccine is not yet licensed for pregnant mares. Fort Dodge also says the vaccination is a killed virus vaccination, making it as safe as injections for sleeping sicknesses.

Fort Dodge received a conditional license to sell the vaccination in the United States in 2001 at the height of the WNV scare there. Since then hundreds of thousands of injections have been performed with a 95 per cent efficiency rate for staving off WNV. The Fort Dodge West Nile Innovator hit the Canadian market in December.

But there are minor side effects to the injection and Tuttle willingly admits the vaccine is not going to be perfect.

"I'm not going to sit on my high horse here and say the active vaccinating of a pregnant brood mare will never cause a problem," said

Tuttle. "It has happened with other vaccines as well. Any vaccine given to a pregnant mare may cause her to slip a foal ... but it is due to the horses immune response."

Veterinarians also support the use of the vaccine.

"I'm still strongly suggesting people to vaccinate their horses," said Hellquist. "We realized it was going to show up here sooner or later. We need people to take the steps to prevent it from happening further."

However, until there is a fail proof system out there some owners like Côté will side on caution.

"I really think that if we had a case even closer, I don't think we would vaccinate," said Côté. "I think we would take our chances with the mosquitoes. If they didn't have these problems ... I would have no hesitation in vaccinating."

Fall marketing in the wake of BSE

The BSE situation has had a significant impact on the Canadian beef industry and will for some time, though longer-term effects are not yet known. Every producer (cow/calf, backgrounder, or feedlot) must develop strategies to manage their operations. Decisions on management and marketing will need to be based upon cost of production, financial risk, cash flow and facts.

"As a cow/calf operator, the first step in making management and marketing decisions will be to determine the cost of production to raise a weaned calf," says Christoph Weder, beef/forage specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Spirit River. "Based on the this past year's high winter feed costs and the longer time spent feeding, it is more important than ever that proper time be spent to determine this cost."

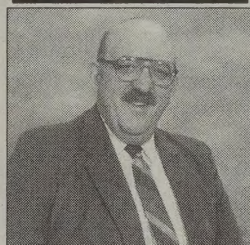

To get an accurate number, producers will need to take the time to determine their own costs of production.

"Once the cost of production is determined, the next step is determining the marketing decision" adds Weder. "The marketing decision should be based on profit, risk, and cash flow and in some cases, acceptable loss that you as a manager are willing to undertake."

IN MEMORIAM

BAILEY, Brian
August 22, 2001

A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled,
We miss the sunshine of his face,
His fond and loving care,
Our home is dark without you,
Father,
We miss you everywhere,
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon his love had given,
And though the body moulders
here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.
Loved and missed forever, Nella
& Brendan Bailey.

Old fashioned hospitality at Ranch House Outback 646

Almost a hundred years of history is behind one of Elk Point's newest businesses, Ranch House Outback 646, located half a block north of 50th Avenue on Highway 41. The former fast-food restaurant has taken on a whole new look and an elegant atmosphere under the ownership of Loree Aarbo and her family.

"Out back on Highway 646 is the homestead that our great-grandfather, Thorald Aarbo homesteaded in 1905. It will soon be 100 years since his arrival from the distant lands of Norway."

In the winter of 1904-05, Thorald and his brother Gilbert loaded all their belongings on a raft and floated down the North Saskatchewan River in search of the lands they dreamed of homesteading. They journeyed down the river until the river froze over, then set up camp in a cave on the river bank and spent the winter exploring the land.

"Our great-grandfather chose the land out back on 646 as it most resembled the huge evergreen forests of Norway. Four generations later, through hard labor, joy, sorrow and progress, the look of the land has changed but the heart behind it is still the same.

"We brought to town the essence of the Ranch House which started out back on 646, to share with you the savor of wholesome food, the companionship and care of good people like you, the comfort of a warm fire on a cold night, and a smile to take you another mile, another day. Come and be our guest."

This charming eatery is warmed with wood panelling and subdued lighting, western in menu and atmosphere. Family portraits of yesteryear adorn the walls, and add to the 'Ranch House' feel. A massive firestone fireplace urges you to sit a while and enjoy its flickering beauty, and the fine food encourages you to come back for more.

NEW RESTAURANT OWNER Loree Aarbo shows off the beautiful fieldstone fireplace with "bear den" designed by her mother for Ranch House Outback 646. Great-grandfather Thorald Aarbo's portrait smiles down from the mantelpiece.
